Running with Swords The Adventures and Misadventures of the Irrepressible Canadian Fencing Champion

By Sherraine MacKay

Fitzhenry & Whiteside. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. Hardcover. 219 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.2in. x 0.9in. Prior to the 2004 Athens Olympics, few Canadians - outside fencing circles - knew very much about Sherraine MacKay, but as the countdown to those games began, her name became more and more familiar, and while the world of fencing had been, up to that time, an esoteric sport at best, it too was suddenly thrust into the limelight. It helped, of course, that in the last World Cup of the season prior to the Games, MacKay had won gold (her second) that she had been ranked as high as number two, and consistently ranked among the top 10 female fencers in the world over the past five years. It helped that her photo suddenly began appearing in our national magazines and in major daily newspapers across Canada. It helped that she was ebullient, outspoken, quick-witted and funny enough to land a spot reading her Letters from Paris on CBC Radios The Inside Track with host Robin Brown. In a surprise upset, a Greek fencer bested Sherraine in Athens, though the Canadian womens team, which she anchored, finished fourth - the best finish ever by...
